

Tulsa Law Review

---

Volume 10
Issue 1 Dedicated to John Rogers

---

1974

From the Editors

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalcommons.law.utulsa.edu/tlr>

Part of the Law Commons

---

Recommended Citation

From the Editors, 10 Tulsa L. J. xi (2013).

Available at: <https://digitalcommons.law.utulsa.edu/tlr/vol10/iss1/2>

This Front Matter is brought to you for free and open access by TU Law Digital Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in Tulsa Law Review by an authorized editor of TU Law Digital Commons. For more information, please contact megan-donald@utulsa.edu.

From the Editors . . . .

The editors of THE UNIVERSITY OF TULSA LAW JOURNAL are proud to present this special complimentary issue which honors Dean Emeritus John Rogers and commemorates the dedication of John Rogers Hall, the new College of Law building.

This issue is by far the most ambitious project ever undertaken by the JOURNAL. Included are articles by Justice William H. Rehnquist, by Dean Page Keeton, and by nine members of the College of Law faculty, as well as timely student material in the new Recent Developments and Book Review sections.

The editors plan to make this the beginning of a new era for the JOURNAL. Through the generosity of those who helped create the new building, the JOURNAL now has the resources to produce a publication which can offer expanded services to practicing attorneys, the courts, and the academic community. To take advantage of this opportunity, the editors have made several changes in format and content. While our new cover and size are the most obvious changes, there are others even more substantial:

Four Times: Hereafter, the JOURNAL will be published four times a year.

New Sections: In addition to the familiar sections—Articles, Comments, and Notes—new coverage will be provided. There will be a Recent Developments section, The Forum, Book Reviews, and Law School News.

Recent Developments: In the recent developments section, introduced in this issue, readers will find a selection of the most interesting recent cases from throughout the country analyzed in terms of their relevance to Oklahoma law and their possible utilization by Oklahoma attorneys.

The Forum: The Forum will provide a platform for the exploration and exposition of topics which do not fit the traditional definitions of Note, Comment, or Article. Upcoming Forum essays will include a practicum on class-action practice in Oklahoma and an approving appraisal of recent welfare reform legislation in New York and California.

Law School News: In an effort to keep subscribers abreast of developments at the College of Law, the JOURNAL will publish a Law School News page. This section, which appears for the first time in this issue, will report faculty, alumni, and student achievements, as well as announcements about personnel, policy, admissions, and other activities and events in the life of the school.

Book Reviews: A Book Review section also appears for the first time in this issue. Attention will focus primarily on books by Oklahoma authors or works particularly pertinent to Oklahoma practice.

The editors welcome your comments, suggestions, ideas. We also hope that you will subscribe to the JOURNAL. We believe that the expanded services outlined above will make the JOURNAL an evermore valuable asset to the legal profession. A subscription card is enclosed for your convenience.

Thank you.

The Editors

Portrait by Claude Montgomery

JOHN ROGERS

To John Rogers, Dean Emeritus of the College of Law, who has given immeasurably of himself to his profession and his community, the editors respectfully dedicate this tenth anniversary issue.

