Order of the Curule Chair

The past year witnessed the installation of a Senior Honor Society at the College of Law, the Order of the Curule Chair. Membership in the Order is conferred in the last semester of the senior year, upon those students selected from the top ten per cent of the class who have combined outstanding scholarship with distinguished service to the College of Law throughout their law school career. This year certificates of membership were awarded to RICK LOEWENHERZ and JOHN B. JARBOE.

Awards

The Vernon Law Book and W. D. Banton Award, consisting of a set of Oklahoma Statutes Annotated, is granted annually to the senior law student having the highest overall grade point average. This year's recipient of the award was JOHN B. JARBOE.

The United States Law Week Award, presented this year to JOHN BARLOW NELSON, is given to the graduating student who, in the opinion of the faculty, has made the most satisfactory scholastic progress in his final year. The award consists of a year's subscription to United States Law Week.

The Martin, Fellows, Smith Cup, awarded to the outstanding senior law student, went to JOHN B. JARBOE, Editor-in-Chief of the Law Journal. The Law School Alumni Association Award for the outstanding member of the Junior Class went to LEIGH H. TAYLOR.

One selected title of Corpus Juris Secundum was awarded to a member of each class, chosen by the faculty. Receiving this award were: J. C. JOYCE, fourth year student; ARCHIE ROBBINS, third year student; LEIGH H. TAYLOR, second year student; and RICHARD CASEY COOPER, first year student.

At the Oklahoma Bar Association meeting in Tulsa, December 3, 1964, JOHN B. JARBOE was named the outstanding law student at the University of Tulsa.

American Law Student Association

This spring the College of Law hosted the Tenth Circuit Conference of the American Law Student Association. The delegates in attendance represented law schools in New Mexico, Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, Kansas, and Oklahoma. Highlight of the Conference was the presence of Justice Charles E. Whittaker (retired) of the United States Supreme Court, who participated in several of the panel discussions and delivered the principal address at the closing banquet.

Faculty

The Faculty of the College of Law continues its expansion with the appointment of three new faculty members, in addition to two men who joined us during the past academic year.

Associate Professor John TeSelle joined the faculty in September, 1964, taking over the teaching of Contracts, Patent and Copyright Law, and several courses in the area covered by the Uniform Commercial Code. He received his LL.B. from the University of Pennsylvania, and his LL.M. from George Washington University. Before coming to the University of Tulsa, Professor TeSelle served as Deputy Legal Advisor to the United States Mission to NATO, and as a faculty member of the Judge Advocate General’s School at the University of Virginia. The Tulsa Law Journal is particularly appreciative of Professor TeSelle’s work as a Faculty Advisor.

Dr. Robert G. Smith, who joined the faculty in January, is conducting the Seminar in Medico-Legal Problems. Dr. Smith holds an M.D. degree from Washington University in St. Louis, an LL.B. and a Master’s Degree in Public Health from Harvard University. While he was earning the latter degrees, Dr. Smith served on the staff of the Harvard University Medical School.

New members of the faculty next fall will be Dr. W. Paul Gormley and Professors John F. Marvin and Frank G. Homan. Dr. Gormley holds a Ph.D. from the University of Denver, an LL.B. and an LL.M. from George Washington University. He has previously been a professor of law at Chicago Kent and at the University of South Dakota. Before joining the University of Tulsa Faculty he will be in residence at the Hague Academy of International Law, and will be attending a number of conferences on International Law over the summer. Professor Marvin earned his LL.B. at the University of Missouri at Kansas City, and his LL.M. from New York University. Currently a Teaching Fellow at New York University, he will be teaching Trade Regulations and Corporations. Professor Homan, who holds a J.D. from Cleveland Marshall Law School of Baldwin-Wallace College, will be teaching courses in Real and Personal Property. He has previously been a Research Assistant at Cleveland-Marshall.

Professor A. Allen King, who also served as Dean of the Law School for 5 years, will be leaving us next Fall to join the faculty of the American University Law School in Washington, D.C. Professor King came to the University of Tulsa in 1948, later serving as Administrative Dean from 1949 until 1958, and as Dean of the Law School from 1958 until 1962. A Professor of Property and Future Interests, he recently completed a revision and updating of Powell on Real Property. Professor King will be missed by both faculty and students, and certainly by the many graduates of the College of Law whom he schooled in the law of property.
